Rapport sur la politique spatiale européenne (French Edition)

Les technologies spatiales et leurs applications font l'objet d'une évaluation régulière de l'OPECST depuis 1991. Dans la continuité de leur rapport de 2012 sur la politique spatiale européenne,

L'OPECST a organisé une audition publique, le 7 juillet 2015, pour prendre en compte les évolutions intervenues depuis trente mois : nouvelle gouvernance européenne, intensification de la concurrence avec notamment l'américain SpaceX, propulsion électrique des satellites, projets de lancement par les « GAFA » de milliers de microsatsellites de communication.

Au nombre des conclusions qu'ils tirent de cette audition publique, qui sont autant de recommandations pour la stratégie spatiale européenne et sa déclinaison industrielle, figurent leur soutien à la décision prise à Luxembourg, en décembre 2014, de confirmer la construction du nouveau lanceur Ariane 6 à l'horizon 2020 et la nécessité d'assurer une veille active sur les possibles ruptures technologiques, afin que l'Europe ne rate pas le tournant des lanceurs réutilisables.
